TWENTY-FOURTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME | SEPTEMBER 17, 2017
VIGÉSIMO CUARTO DOMINGO DEL TIEMPO ORDINARIO / 17 DE SEPTIEMBRE DE 2017

Forgive your neighbor's injustice; then when you pray, your own sins will be forgiven. — Sirach 28:2
Perdona la ofensa a tu prójimo, y así, cuando pidas perdón se te perdonarán tus pecados. — Siracide 28:2

FORGIVENESS

Nearly ten years before, a son and father had parted ways when the business they shared went bankrupt. The son blamed the father. They did not speak to each other again.

Then the father became seriously ill. The mother called the son and told him he had better come soon. The son walked sheepishly into the hospital room. The father motioned his son to him and whispered: "Did you ever think you could do anything that would keep me from loving you?"

Resentment and anger are foul things, the first reading from Sirach tells us. Remember the last things. Stop hating. Live by the commandments. As Saint Paul writes to the Romans, we are to live for the Lord and die for the Lord.

Jesus' parable in today's Gospel reminds us of God's compassion. The immense sin of humanity has been forgiven and stricken from the record. We are to forgive others in the same way.

TODAY'S READINGS

First Reading — Remember the commandments and hate not your neighbor (Sirach 27:30 — 28:9).

Psalm — The Lord is kind and merciful, slow to anger, and rich in compassion (Psalm 103).

Second Reading — Whether we live, or whether we die, we do so for the Lord (Romans 14:7-9).

Gospel — Forgive one another from your heart (Matthew 18:21-35).

PERDÓN

Unos diez años antes, un padre e hijo se distanciaron cuando el negocio en el que eran socios se fue a bancarrota. El hijo culpó al padre. No se hablaron más.

Entonces el padre se puso gravemente enfermo. La madre llamó al hijo y le dijo que viniera a verlo pronto. El hijo entró con vergüenza a su habitación en el hospital. El padre hizo un gesto para que se acercara y susurró: "¿Acaso pensaste que podrías hacer algo que me hiciera dejar de amarte?"

El rencor y la cólera son abominables, nos dice la primera lectura de Siráclide. Piensa en tu fin. Deja de odiar. Vive conforme a los mandamientos. Como escribe san Pablo en Romanos, para el Señor vivimos y para el Señor morimos.

En el decimosexto aniversario del 11 de septiembre de 2001, para nosotros en Estados Unidos todavía no nos es fácil perdonar. Sin embargo, la parábola de Jesús en el Evangelio de hoy nos recuerda la compasión de Dios. El inmenso pecado de la humanidad ha sido perdonado y borrado del libro. Tenemos que perdonar a otros de igual manera.

LECTURAS DE HOY

Primera lectura — No podemos fomentar el rencor y esperar que se nos perdonen nuestros pecados (Siráclide 27:30 — 28:7).

Salmo — El Señor es bondadoso y misericordioso, lento a la ira y rico en compasión (Salmo 103(102)).

Segunda lectura — Ya sea que vivamos o muramos, lo hacemos en Cristo (Romanos 14:7-9).

Evangelio — Jesús dice que debemos perdonar no sólo siete veces sino setenta veces siete veces (Mateo 18:21-35).

Wrath and anger are hateful things, yet the sinner hugs them tight.

Sirach as usual gives us words that hit home: as one of the richest books in Wisdom Literature in the Old Testament, Sirach's perceptiveness remains invaluable today.

Today's passage merits rereading and pondering upon, as it points us towards the path of peace and abundance in this life. As humans, we naturally gravitate toward behaviors and ways of thinking that offer convenience or safety, but which in fact inflict substantial damage on us. Whether addiction or procrastination, a grudge or passive aggression, we choose the easier response which results in compounding harm.

Sirach recognizes that at the heart of the broken human condition, one of our greatest hazards is taking refuge in anger or unforgiveness, thinking we'll find protection there.

As with Jesus' parable today, Sirach identifies that our Faith's secret key is the life of forgiveness, the life of repentance.

Practically speaking, one of the most effective ways to access forgiveness of others, the letting go of grudges and bitterness, is through frequent confession. As we allow the mercy of God to become definitive in our lives, we discover a growing spontaneity in our extending mercy to others.

Sirach concludes today telling us: Remember your last days, set enmity aside; remember death and decay, and cease from sin!

For us as Catholics our ability to look beyond this life to the next, our ability to perceive long term gains rather than short term comforts, gives us an ability that many of our neighbors lack. As we choose forgiveness, as we live mercy, we'll startle others with our peculiarity, but perhaps could allow some to discover the secret to peace.

El rencor y la cólera son cosas aborrecibles,
Sin embargo, el pecador se aferra a ellas.

Siracide, como de costumbre nos da palabras que llegan: como uno de los libros más ricos en la literatura de sabiduría en el Antiguo Testamento, la percepción de Siracidé sigue siendo invaluable hoy en día.

El pasaje de hoy merece relectura y reflexión, ya que nos señala el camino de la paz y la abundancia en esta vida. Como seres humanos, naturalmente nos atraen comportamientos y maneras de pensar que ofrecen comodidad o seguridad, pero en realidad nos causan daños sustanciales. Ya sea adicción o la dilación, un rencor o una agresión pasiva, elegimos la respuesta más fácil que resulta en daños graves.

Siracide reconoce que, en el corazón fragil del humano, uno de nuestros mayores riesgos está el de refugiarnos en la ira o en no perdonar, pensando que allí encontraremos protección.

Al igual que con la parábola de Jesús hoy, Sirach identifica que la clave secreta de nuestra fe es la vida de perdón, la vida de arrepentimiento.

En términos prácticos, una de las maneras más eficaces de acceder al perdón a los demás, es el de abandonar los rencores y la amargura, a través de la confesión frecuente. Al permitir que la misericordia de Dios se vuelva definitiva en nuestras vidas, descubrimos una creciente espontaneidad en nuestra propia misericordia extendiéndola hacia los demás.

Siracide concluye hoy diciéndonos: Piensa en tu fin y deja de odiar, piensa en la corrupción del sepulcro y guarda los mandamientos.

Para nosotros como católicos, nuestra capacidad de mirar más allá de esta vida, nuestra capacidad de percibir ganancias a largo plazo en lugar de comodidades a corto plazo, nos da una capacidad que muchos de nuestros vecinos carecen. Cuando elegimos el perdón, y vivimos en la misericordia, sorprenderemos a otros con nuestra peculiaridad, y tal vez podría permitir que algunos descubran el secreto de la paz.
